New Rochelle, NY – (May 12, 2011) - The Lazarus Gallery of United Hebrew of New Rochelle, a campus of residences and services for older adults, is presenting a new juried exhibition entitled Birds, Bees and Butterflies. The exhibit will feature artwork reflecting these winged creatures that conjure visions of springtime and pollination, with a wealth of vibrant colors. Birds, Bees and Butterflies, which features over 40 visual artists from around the United States, will be in the Lazarus Gallery of the new nursing and rehabilitation pavilion through September 9, 2011. The exhibit includes photography, mixed media, sculpture, encaustic, ceramics, jewelry and fiber art.

"We are so pleased to be presenting such a beautiful exhibit for our nursing home and rehabilitation residents, family members, and visitors." said Linda Forman, Vice President of Community

Relations. "The Lazarus Gallery is a wonderful space for inspiration and life-long learning."

The exhibit was judged by Susan Hoeltzel, Director of the Lehman Collage Art Gallery; Emily Mello, curator of the adult and academic programs of the Neuberger Museum of Art and Stomu Miyazaki and architect and Chairman of the Trustees and the Hammond Museum. The curator for the exhibition is Jodi Moise of New Rochelle. We invite the public to an artists' reception on Sunday, May 22nd from 2:00-3:30 pm at United Hebrew Lazarus Gallery, 391 Pelham Road, New Rochelle, NY.
